Sylvia's Story

Sylvia was raising her son and living with her mom when she discovered she was pregnant. After giving her boyfriend the news, he told her to take the abortion pill, then he left her. Sylvia's mom also encouraged her to have an abortion, or else she and her children would not be welcome to live with her. Sylvia felt overwhelmed and alone. At MCWC, our medical team confirmed her pregnancy and presented information on all her options. She realized, "This is a decision I have to live with." Bravely, she decided to parent. Sylvia's mom also changed her mind, allowing her daughter and grandchildren to live with her. Sylvia wants to say to those who financially support MCWC, "Thank you! You're changing lives and saving lives!"

Calee's Story

Calee and her husband were both meth users and were surprised when she got pregnant. Looking for a reason to stop using, they both stayed sober throughout the entire pregnancy and completed the Parenting Class at MCWC. "We received so much. I'm blessed to have met such wonderful people that genuinely care. We've never had that before in our lives."
